President of the Airline, Christopher King said the carrier is operating between The Bahamas, South Florida, the Turks and Caicos Islands, Haiti and Cuba.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Sep. 12, CMC – Bahamian carrier, Junkanoo Air, has launched commercial freight operations across the Caribbean.

President of the Airline, Christopher King said the carrier is operating between The Bahamas, South Florida, the Turks and Caicos Islands, Haiti and Cuba.

The Tribune online quotes King as saying that Junkanoo Air is now focusing on technology as part of its US$1 million investment.

He also said the carrier, that started flights on August 30, is seeking business from local freight forwarders and residents of the Caribbean, while boosting Bahamian exports such as the island's craft industry and the island's economy.

The airline, that is based at the Linden Pinning International Airport, has a fleet that includes two Piper PA-31-359 Chieftain Freighters and plans to acquire Beechcraft 1900 turboprops over the coming year.

The carrier is certified by the Civil Aviation Authority of the Bahamas and the US Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and was the first Bahamian airline certified to haul HAZMAT (hazardous materials).
